Creative Things To Do With Your Bouquet

Making special memories is what I like to do. Of course, you could do the usual bouquet toss. If that is what you want, then that is what you will get when you have me at your reception.

However, putting a unique spin on the usual bouquet toss can make for some very special and memorable moments.

For instance, if you know that there might be not very many single participants for the bouquet toss, you could opt to give it to someone who has meant very much to you such as your mother, sister, or aunt. It could be explained to that person why they mean so much to you as the bouquet is presented whether you would like to say it using my professional wireless microphone or having me to say it as you presented the bouquet to this person. If you prefer me to say, it will be said using words that you have selected for me during our planning.

Another thing that could be done is to have a dance for all the married couples. Through using some carefully chosen words I will have all the married couples join you on the dance floor in order of how many years each couple has been blissfully wedded. Once the couple that has been married the longest makes their way to the dance floor and shares a dance with all of the other couples, you could present the bouquet to them as a special gift to them for their many years of togetherness. It makes for a great photo of you with that special couple and lasting memories for your family and friends.

Alternately, if it is expected that you'll have many single females or if you want to include the married ones at your reception, you may have your florist make a breakaway bouquet. It is one big bouquet tied together with a ribbon. Untie the ribbon just before you toss it. Once it is released into the air it will reveal many smaller bouquets. You can even add a personal touch to each the smaller bouquets by having a fortune ribbon tied to each one.

Ideas for the fortune ribbon could be:

- Lucky in life
- Blessed with children
- Wealth and prosperity
- Travel and Adventure
- Life of Beauty
- Happy home
- Next to be engaged

These few nuggets are just some of what you can do to make for a night that is truly yours. As it was said earlier, I can just do the traditional bouquet toss if that is what you want to do. Or, maybe there is something that you would like to do that is more uniquely you. I can help you with those ideas as well.

The final choice is always yours. This is an event that will be about your personality and your friends and family having fun in sharing it with you.
